Cuban Exiles Feel Time Ripe For New Invasion

BY CHARLES PARKER

17. Amoeba Prototricha

WASHINGTON.—A sense that the slaves now ripe for a new Cuban invasion is spreading among the exiles in this country. Abolition could rise to substantial proportions in April, after the Cuban sugar harvest. Meanwhile, however, from the invasion ago are said to be receiving treatment in Cuba. Their relatives have made arrangements with the Fiat Company in Italy for the purchase of $5 million worth of small tractors and are trying now to raise money for a ransom-exchange.

Gov. Wilson Barron and a group of top Democrats from West Virginia came to Washington Wednesday to present a contribution of $10,000 to the National Committee and they went out to dinner with National Chairman John Bailey. The governor assumed the dinner was on Bailey and the chairman, usually quick to reach for a tip, assumed that he was the governor's guest. So, the burden of the check fell upon the host man to leave the table, a private club.

The Peace Corps has contracted to send 200 teachers to Ethiopia in the spring. The Ethiopians are so pleased by the prospect that they will replace some of their native teachers, with the Americans, some of whom will teach in the large new school in Addis Ababa, that was built with Federal funds.

Although life in Leopoldville is not dramatically dangerous for foreign diplomats, it has become unpleasant through the erosion of police discipline and the development of a rash of housebreaking. The natives tend to insult white women when they have the opportunity and most of the white diplomats now carry revolvers. It is feared violence will develop from the situation.

those who have watched his career. Director John McCone is believed to have found a good team with Richard Helms as director of operations and he is planning to pull away from the direct management of the agency and perform chiefly as the President's adviser on intelligence. This will be a sharp change from the days of Allen Dulles, who ran the operation on a very personal basis.

Although the Germans are still insisting there can be no negotiations at Geneva on Berlin that go beyond the status of the city itself, it is recognized in German quarters that they will have to soften their stand if the Soviets come forward with a reasonable proposal involving the four areas of Central Europe.

The space administration has directed the Navy to find highly qualified Negro pilots and train them through its test pilot school so that he can qualify to become an astronaut. The administration does not want any segregation in space.

The Russians are also believed to have taken the initiative in calling off the television appearances of Kennedy and Krushchev. They felt the time was not ripe. The plans had not been settled since the White House wanted each leader to talk for seven and one-half minutes and the Kremlin wanted the two men to divide an hour of TV time. The Russians were angry at the lead concerning the possibility of the programs because the US had originally suggested that the negotiations be held Eugenij D. Kiselev, the Soviet diplomat who has just been appointed undersecretary of the United Nations for security and political affairs, is another reflection of the new Russian policy of seeking friendly personalities in this country. Kiselev was the Russian consul in New York before he joined the Soviet embassy. An amiable figure who spoke English well and seemed to like

The only recourse for the administration on the Medicare bill is to have the Senate pass it as an amendment to a bill which the House has already passed and thus force a vote in the Representatives' chamber. A likely vehicle for the amendment will be H.R. 10, a tax proposal which would allow all veterans and professionals over 50 to set aside their own pension funds. The bill now lacks five votes to get it to the Ways and Means Committee and there is little prospect of obtaining them.

Since there is little prospect of direct negotiations with the province of Rio Grande do Sul Brazil on the future of the I.T.T. properties, U.S. Ambassador Lincoln Gordon is pressing for direct talks with the national government. He was in Rio de Janeiro Saturday night on Monday, but that official left for Geneva without keeping his appointment. The telephone company is willing to agree on a "communicating bridge" and to spend $100 million in a Brazilian investment in return for a quick settlement. It is considering a site outside Rio de Janeiro or in Brazil in South America to build a new "World Notes" At present it needs 20,000 tons of timber to Red China and is planning to send 20,000 additional tons. India, Heavy Indian participation in the Exposition Fair is regarded as a factor for entry into the Latin American Economic Community. Cuba has announced a new plant with maximum production of 500,000 sets a year. The company's U.S. Rayon tire factory will produce 240,000 tires and has been sold in Turkey.

93 Arabs, including 50 who are enrolled in Israel University to study medicine and social sciences. "Gutman nationalized 100 bookstores which sold Marxist literature. All the others closed over a year ago. Virtually the UAR are repudiated by the United States in trying to discuss the impact of
